

Park litterbugs

Imagine that you're in a park, and you see a group of people who have been eating and drinking together. The group then gets up to leave the park without picking up their rubbish.

What do you do?

Approach them immediately and explain that they should pick up their rubbish before they leave.

Wait for them to leave and then clean up after them.

Take a photo of the site, write down their licence plate number (if possible), and then inform the police.

Do nothing. It's not your problem.

Take other action.

Have a group discussion about this.
